

Elizabeth is a youth engagement and disability advocate. She is a member of the Youth Engagement Transition Initiative and participates in projects such as creating toolkits and guides, giving presentations, and recording podcasts and videos, all dedicated to improving the transition process for youth with disabilities and increasing their engagement. Elizabeth has also worked with other organizations including the Epilepsy Foundation, American Academy of Pediatrics, Child Neurology Foundation, and Michigan Children's Special Health Care Services.

